

A Real Life Tale of Honesty Comes to the Spectator's Ear

A NEIGHBOR COMES IN with a good tale which would have more zest to it if his excellent name were used, but he says that might make him appear to be a "big shot" and that is not what he prefers.

The episode occurred on a Sunday a month ago, when he was driving with his wife in the Haddon Heights neighborhood. A car coming in the opposite direction left its path and shot across the road, hitting our friend's car head-on. The wreckage was considerable, but the car could still travel, which helped some.

The police soon arrived and they decided the man who did the hitting was a bit drunk. All concerned were taken to the Squire, and Jersey justice being what it is (to outsiders), a fine of $235 was clapped on the offender. He was a man in his late 60's and his gnarled hands revealed that he made his living by hard work. He agreed that he had done wrong and was sorry for it. Any such fine, however, was beyond his ability to pay, but he told the Judge he had a friend on White Horse Pike who would come to his rescue if he could use the phone. The friend quickly arrived and paid the cash. He seemed to have great pleasure in doing so.

Turning to the man whose car he had so seriously damaged, the amerced one again expressed contrition and said that while he had no insurance, he would surely make good if given a little chance. It was arranged that an estimate would be secured the following day and the culprit would call on Tuesday to plan a method of payment.

The mechanics wanted $180 and the job would take two weeks. The old fellow quickly agreed and said he would pay weekly. Also he offered to lend his car for the time needed for the repairs, but that didn't prove to be necessary. He explained his day's work consisted of greasing and washing cars. He lived in a band-box house on a small street in South Philadelphia and had a wife who was a chronic invalid. Nevertheless, he asked for no mercy and was anxious to do what was right.

Since the affair happened, he has come each Monday morning with $50 in bills. So far $150 has been paid, which means that the balance of $30 is expected on the coming Monday. When he arrives with the final payment, our friends are ready to turn the entire $180 back to him. The man and his ways have affected them in an inspiring manner and have immensely increased their stores of optimism in a very definite way. They feel Narberth might profit if the incident is put in print.

"The guy has camped right in my wife's heart," says our friend "and before we're done with it, I think she might also make me pay the fine. I rather have the same notion myself."

The impression here is that it is not going to be too easy to give the old stalwart his $180 and there must be a check-up to see what happened when his crumpled cash is offered to him.

B-C-N Rotarians Hear Talk on Greek Guerilla

Says America Should Take Place of Britain in Greece

"America should take Britain's place in Greece to stiffen the backbone of the nation," Stellos S. Papadakis, a graduate student in Political Science at the University of Pennsylvania, told members of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club last week.

There are two other things which would help my country during this crisis," he said.

"We should have a general election under the supervision of the United Nations, and the British should withdraw, which they have promised to do," he added.

Papadakis is a graduate of the Athens Law School and during the war served as a liaison officer between the British and Greek guerillas. He was introduced by Raymond L. Watrous, chairman of the International Service Committee. Guests included Morris Chios and his guest, who were invited by William S. Howard, and Harry Barr, of the Upper Darby Rotary Club, and Ike Sheppard, of the Norristown Rotary Club.

The luncheon meeting was held at the Overbrook Golf Club and was conducted by Richard Gillis, president.

LICENSE SUSPENDED
State Police have suspended the driving license of Nancy Florence Nash, of Iona Ave., Narberth. The charge was failure to appear for a hearing.

PENN VALLEY RESIDENTS MAY USE OLD SUNDAY SCHOOL AS MEMORIAL

One hundred and twenty-three years ago the blacksmiths, wheelwrights and farmers of Fairview built a combination Sunday School and School House.

Today their great-grandchildren are thinking of using the little one-room building as a Community Center and War memorial for the residents of Fairview—now known as Penn Valley.

It was in 1824 that Aaron Kesch (who was born in Treddefin Township in 1773) started to teach Sunday School in the farmhouse of Fairview after his week's work in his blacksmith shop, located at 939 Summit Road, where Samuel R. Markle lives today.

Mr. Kesch had a good friend, William C. Fisher, who sympathized with his work among the children of the community and the two men decided that building for religious purposes was necessary.

It was Mr. Fisher who donated the ground on Fairview Road, between Summit Road and Conshohocken State Road, where the building stands to this day.

He also donated stone to build the edifice and other neighbors gave their time and money. The building was begun in 1826 and two years later was occupied by both a week-day school and the Sunday School. Affiliated with the American Sunday School Union of Philadelphia, it was called the Fairview Union Sunday School.

Only 21 Children Attend During Last 3 Months

Council President Fox Asks Publicity for Work Being Done

The Child Health Center is going to be discontinued despite the small attendance record it has had during the past three months.

Only 16 children attended the Center in January, February and March and only $21 was spent for the care of those children.

Asks Publicity

The Borough Board of Health suggested at its April 1 meeting that the Center be discontinued, but Borough Council had a better idea.

"Why not," suggested Borough Council President Walter A. Fox, "Publicize the Center more and then see how many children attend?"

So, Robert M. Cameron, chairman of the Water, Light and Health Committee, was instructed to present Council's suggestions to the Board of Health at its next meeting in May.

Founded in 1930

The Center originated in 1930 through the interest of the Welfare Committee of the Women's Community Club of Narberth. Mrs. C. Arley Farmer, of Woodbine and Cleveland Aves., Penn Valley, was its Chairman as is today.

"We want to emphasize," Mrs. Farmer stated, "that the Center is purely educational and preventative, not a medical Center."

Children of the community are brought there only for examinations and for reference back to their own doctors.

"It is chiefly a center for infants who need regular monthly examinations," she added. "The mothers bring them to our doctor or nurse for a check-up. If there is anything at all wrong with them, they are referred to their own doctors or to the hospitals."

Moves Back and Forth

The Center was begun in 1930 because Narberth parents were sending their children to the Community Health and Civic Association in Ardmore.

Miss Bessie Drane was assigned by the Community Health and Civic Association to be Narberth's nurse and a room in Elm Hall, used by the Community Club, was turned over for an examination room.

The Community Health and Civic Association sends one of its visiting nurses for the Center's use and also for one of its doctors.

It has moved from Elm Hall to 102 Conway Ave., several times—it is now back at Elm Hall because of small attendance.

It is open on the first and third Wednesdays of each month for consultation and it takes children from infants to school age.

Dr. Emily R. Maxwell is the doctor in charge of the office and Miss Natalie Pollock is the nurse. She is also the Narberth School nurse.

DR. BARNES CELEBRATES HIS 25th ANNIVERSARY

The Rev. Dr. George Emerson Barnes celebrated his 25th anniversary as pastor of Overbrook Presbyterian Church Lancaster and City Aves., at a special service Tuesday night.

Dr. Barnes was presented with a leather bound book containing a resolution of appreciation of his pastorate, signed by officers of the church. Delbert B. Gray, Jr., superintendent of the church school for 25 years, made the presentation.

Dr. Barnes served as president of Philadelphia Council of Churches in 1946 and as president of the Philadelphia Federation of Churches from 1939 to 1941. He also is chairman of the restoration fund of the Presbyterian Church in America and chairman of the executive committee of the Church World Service.

EXCUSED FROM JURY

Granger B. Mann, of Haverford, John Bell and Emily S. Huber, of Ardmore, have been excused from service on the Montgomery County Civil Court Jury, April session.

Town Talk

By DOROTHY M. OGDEN

It was an odd feeling to watch the teachers file into the School Board meeting Monday night, hat in hand, to ask for a raise to keep body and soul together.

The teachers crept into the room quietly and settled down for a long evening of it, only to have the Board adopt the recommendation of a $500 raise from the Salary Committee without any fuss whatever.

Spotted many of my old grammar school, Junior and Senior High School teachers in the crowd and I was certainly glad to see them get the raise.

And, I think the Board deserves a good word for showing an understanding of the teacher's economic needs.

Sorry to hear that Veteran's Service Center head, Jim Barnett, is having an operation this week at the Valley Forge General Hospital. He has just been promoted to the post vacated by Dr. J. Allyn Rogers.

Congratulations to Marcia L. Gibbon, she's the daughter of the Walter G. Gibbon family, of 406 Pembroke Road, Bala Cynwyd...she's just started work with the Eastern Airlines in New York after her recent graduation from Central Radio and Television School, Inc., at Kansas City, Missouri.

Another congratulation goes to Jimmy and Alice Wiggins, of 212 Cricket Ave., Ardmore. They just became proud parents of Robert Steven, born Tuesday morning at Bryn Mawr Hospital. Jimmy is the person who helped Roger Volmer out at the chicken shop in Ardmore before Mr. Volmer's recent death.

Incidentally, Mrs. Volmer told me she is going to continue the shop just as it was.

Talking to Bill Bedell, manager of the Egyptian Theater, who said that Warners is according to the present requests of the parents and members of the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club in putting on an early Saturday afternoon show just for children. He says that the matinee for children will be from 1:15 to 3:15 Saturdays and that they have quite a line-up of juvenile shows for the future.

Saw John Austin, he's the Commander of the John Winthrop American Legion Post in Bryn Mawr, holding hands with a very pretty girl at the Commissioner's meeting last week.

Sorry to hear that Ed Leary, Jr., son of the Ed Learys, of 118 Union Ave., Bala, fell and cut his face last Tuesday night.

Happened just before Ed, Sr., was on his way to the Lion's Club meeting, and they had to rush the little fellow to Bryn Mawr Hospital, where he had several stitches in his head.

By the way, Ed, Sr. said that he could not remember about the fine treatment they were given at Bryn Mawr's Accident Ward.

Hope John F. Mahoney, he's the 24-year-old ex-Marine who used to be the Assistant Manager of the Ardmore Theater, is feeling better after that heart attack he suffered Monday.

John, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mahoney, of 127 Coulter Ave., Ardmore, has had a rough time of it...He was wounded on Bougainville when he was overseas with the Marines, and now he's in Jefferies Hospital...He's improving, but was in an oxygen tent for a while.

Heard that Tom Donnelly...he's the son of Dr. and Mrs. F. Donnelly, of 115 Bryn Mawr Ave., Bala-Cynwyd...had quite a time in Antarctic expedition from which he has just returned.

He was a freshman at Villanova College until he entered the Navy 14 months ago and was assigned to the Mount Olympus, Admiral Byrd's flagship. He's home on a 24-day leave right now.

Len Dill, Jr., of 257 Hathaway Lane, Wynnewood, is going to be taking quite a trip. He's on his way to visit every University of Pennsylvania alumni group from coast to coast. He's starting out with the units from San Francisco to Seattle.

Guess you know that he's secretary of Penn's general alumni society.

Mrs. Jeannette V. Hall, of 26 Bala Ave., Bala, is anxiously awaiting April 30 because that's the day her son, Sgt. Craig Hall, is going to call from Frankfurt, Germany. Seems Craig won a free phone call for buying the most bonds in his unit, a couple of weeks ago.

Horn and Hardart waitresses are very unhappy about the crack concerning their wages and the wages of local school teachers...then a Philadelphia columnist reported it inaccurately and added more fuel to the fire. Congressman Explains Aims Of Labor Bill

Neighborhood Club Hears How Laws Are Made

Three fundamental objectives were sought in preparing the labor bill recently passed by the U. S. House of Representatives, Congressman Samuel K. McConnell told members of the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club Tuesday night.

These objectives, declared Congressman McConnell, who lives in Wynnewood, were:

1. To define the rights of the laboring man.

2. To curb the power of labor leaders.

3. To establish the public interest and welfare as paramount.

Most of the bill, the Congressman said, was given over to setting up and defining a procedure for collective bargaining.

He told the Neighborhood Club members, meeting in the Bala-Cynwyd Woman's Club, Cynwyd, that the bill provided for secret balloting on elections, assessments, dues and strikes as a means of encouraging and facilitating a majority vote on all labor action.

Montgomery County's Congressman hit at the failure of labor leaders to cooperate in the public hearings that preceded enactment of the bill.

"It is regrettable," he said, "that the big labor leaders of the country did not see fit to cooperate with Congress in formulating this bill. These labor leaders wanted no changes in existing labor laws, and so we had to proceed on our own as best we could."

Congressman McConnell said he used to be a monopolist because he thought large corporations eliminated competition and economic waste.

"But I have changed my opinion in later years," he said, "I have watched big combinations of capital on one side, big labor combinations on the other and, in the middle, a big centralized government trying to regulate both."

"I have come to the conclusion I was wrong. What it amounts to is that these men sit down and decide the destiny of millions of other men. From such a set-up there is a danger of Statism, similar to the Mussolini Regime in Italy. While I realize we cannot go back to small businesses and small labor unions there should be some middle ground on which we could find our answers to labor problems and industrial peace."

The congressman answered a question from the floor as to how much a congressman is bound by his party caucus.

"Personally," he said, "I feel very much bound by a caucus vote except on issues involving my own religious and moral principles. I believe in party government, one party in and one party out and in holding the party in power responsible for good government."

In explaining congressional procedure McConnell traced the course of a bill from its inception to the time when it becomes a law. He told of how the bill is first prepared by trained technicians and a legal hopper, which is actually a small box near the desk of the speaker of the House. Next it is given a number and referred by the speaker to one of the 19 standing committees.

Next comes the discussion of the bill in committee, the taking of testimony and the incorporation of the committee's recommendations before it is reported out and placed on the calendar. It is the Rules Committee, he said, that decides the destiny of the bill and when it shall go to the floor.

John Austin, Commander of the John Winthrop Post of the American Legion, wrote to the Lower Merion Board of Commissioners last week asking that the Veterans' Service Center be continued indefinitely.

He commended the Center on the good work it had done for local veterans.

Narberth Vets Deny 'Rowdyism' Charges Made at Council Meeting

"If Vincent Delvincio doesn't like shop cowboys loitering on the corner," Narberth, he can get the h— out."

This was the answer given this week by a spokesman for 24 young veterans to Delvincio's charges of "rowdyism" before last Monday night's meeting of Borough Council. To Appear at Meeting

"None of us has ever accosted Mrs. Delvincio or anyone else," said John Volpi, 24, of 229 Hampden Ave., the spokesman.

Letter to VMSC Thanks Corps For Saving Life

More Active Members Are Needed, Merkle Tells Meeting

"The fact that you had oxygen available saved my mother's life last Sunday."

This is one sentence from a letter written by a Narberth resident to the Narberth Volunteer Medical Service Corps and read at their April meeting. The letter referred to an emergency call to which the Corps responded.

To Be In Parade

It was reported at the meeting that the Corps had been invited by the American Legion to join the parade on Memorial Day and that they in turn were to extend a similar invitation to the State Fencibles.

Captain Thomas Merkle reported that he had been assured by the Worthington Company that the new Narberth ambulance would be delivered within a few weeks. It is hoped that the old ambulance can be disposed of at a satisfactory return, he said.

New Members Needed

The most urgent need of the Corps today, Merkle said, is to enroll new active members, especially men who can drive the ambulance. It was voted at the meeting to contact church organizations to ascertain whether they could help the Corps in obtaining new members.

Chander Gillespie, Jr., of 100 Overhill Rd., was stricken April 11 with a mild case of the disease. He attends a nursery school, but there are no other cases reported in Lower Merion this week. The boy's father is employed by the Insurance Company of North America.

Cost of Books, Higher Salaries Cited by Trustees

An appeal to the people of Narberth to rally to the support of the Narberth Community Library will be made soon in a letter to be sent to all residents of the Borough.

Rising costs of books, increased salaries for library workers, greater circulation of books and increased attendance by Borough residents will be cited as reasons for the public appeal.

Will Ask for $1500

This course of action was decided Monday night at a meeting of the Library's Board of Trustees. It will be the first time such an appeal has ever been made.

Goal of the campaign for funds has been set at $1500, according to Mrs. Samuel J. MacCartney, a member of the Board.

"At present," Mrs. MacCartney said, "the Library is supported by funds supplied by the Borough, the School District and by miscellaneous library income."

"The Borough has allocated $2500 this year; the School Board, $300, and about $100 will probably come in across the Circulation Desk."

"But this money is not enough to support the Library's activities... if we don't raise the $1500, we will not be able to operate as we have in the past."

Junior Women Discuss Changes In State By-Laws; Elect Officers

A proposed change in by-laws for Junior Women's Clubs in Pennsylvania was approved by only half the members of the Narberth Junior Women's Community Club at their meeting last Thursday.

Consequently, members voted unanimously to allow the president, Mrs. Larry Grey, to use her own discretion in casting the local club's vote at the State Convention to be held in Buck Hill Falls, May 6, 7 and 8.

Proposed Changes

Mrs. Sterling Chain, who is running for the third presidency of the County Federation, told club members that included in the proposed changes of by-laws are the following proposals:

To abolish age limits; and to place junior clubs into a class A category rather than a class B section of the Senior class A Club.

Elect Officers

This would mean that junior clubs would run their affairs without the advice or sponsorship of the senior clubs; that their members would be eligible for any county federation office (not just the 3rd vice-presidency, as is now allowed); and that cost of membership in the county federation would be increased from 25 to 50 cents per capita.

It was announced that the Narberth Seniors had said they would cast their votes concerning the proposed change in by-laws, as the junior club wished.

New officers elected for a two-year term at this meeting include Mrs. William Borke, second vice-president; Mrs. George Elinger, recording secretary; Mrs. Edwin Lewis, treasurer; and Mrs. A. M. Bottoms, director.

It was announced that tickets were still available for a luncheon and afternoon program at the Bulletin Homeowners' Center on Wednesday, April 30. All those wishing to attend were asked to call Mrs. Harry Tyler, at Narberth 2532-R, County Blanner for Juniors.

Mrs. Sterling Chain will be in charge of a dinner for Montgomery County Junior Clubwomen, to be held in the Narberth Club House next Thursday.

Members voted to support the Royer School for the Blind, as one of their projects for the coming year.

Hostesses at the meeting included Mrs. Michael McGuire, Mrs. Edward Purcell, Mrs. George Lincoln, Mrs. J. B. Edmunds, Mrs. Edward Nunn, Mrs. Allan Cuthbert and Mrs. J. V. Adams.

Mrs. Hepburn Again President Of GOP Council; Scott Speaks

Mrs. Earle Hepburn of Merion was re-elected president of the Lower Merion-Narberth Council of Republican women at the annual luncheon meeting and biennial election of officers Tuesday afternoon.

Representative Hugh Scott of Philadelphia addressed the members on the outstanding legislation before Congress today and the Republican program on prices, taxes, labor and control of Communism.

Elected to serve for two years with Mrs. Hepburn were Mrs. John Y. Huber, Jr., of Haverford, honorary president; Mrs. Samuel L. Veltch of Penn Wynne, Mrs. Edgar Cockbill of Narberth, Mrs. Owen J. Toland of Wynnewood, Mrs. James Jensen of Haverford, Mrs. Ray S. Tannehill of Bryn Mawr and Mrs. Presidents, Mrs. Charles B. DeVaux of Haverford, recording secretary; Mrs. Dudley S. Smith of Merion, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. John H. Stormfultz of Penn Wynne, treasurer.

Representative Scott, who was introduced by Mrs. Huber, co-chairman of the program committee, is Congressman from the 6th District of Philadelphia and in addition to serving on the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee has been named one of a committee of five to direct the 1948 Congressional campaign.

"It is not true it is up to business alone to reduce prices," Representative Scott told his audience. "Stressing the importance of an alert public opinion, he warned against the acceptance of fallacious catch-words."

"We have high cost of living due to the fact that the administration today is still accelerating this cost of living through subsidies, such as maintenance of the high cost of food at its source."

"We need courage and lots more of it to end these abuses," Scott said. Criticizing the administration program on housing he pointed out, "the government says it will build houses for veterans only, then raises the price of lumber, closes lumber yards and supports higher wages programs before asking for lower prices. Then it says the veteran can buy. It is the veteran who suffers in the end."

Speaking of taxes, he said, "I believe you are going to get the tax reduction bill through this year; I believe it is absolutely essential. I believe the budget will be balanced, and, in my opinion we will make a substantial reduction on the debt."

The House, he predicted, would pass the labor bill even over a Presidential veto. "Congress is determined to do this."

Counties Join In Fight Against City Land Grab

Philadelphia Plans to Flood 7,500 Acres in Horsham Township

Officials of Delaware and Montgomery counties served notice this week that they are planning to fight Philadelphia's attempt to take a large slice of Montgomery county's land area to establish a water storage reservoir in Horsham Township and nearby sections.

A formal advertisement was inserted in newspapers this week giving notice that a special bill, jointly sponsored by State Senators Lloyd H. Wood, Montgomery, and Edward B. Watson, Bucks, will be presented in the State Legislature to kill off power given Philadelphia, in legislation passed in 1886, to take any land it desired in adjoining counties to improve its water supply.

In this effort to combat the proposed land grab Montgomery county is being joined by Delaware county as well as Bucks.

This action followed Philadelphia's recently announced approval of plans presented by a special engineering board to tap the waters of the Delaware at Walpack Bend in the Pocono Mountains and pipe the water to Warrington, Bucks county, where it plans to build a huge dam.

The resulting backing up of the water would mean inundation of some 7500 acres, of which 5200 are in Montgomery county, the remainder in Bucks. The proposed Warrington Reservoir would flood 3000 acres, chiefly in Horsham Township and force nearly 1000 people to vacate their homes, including valuable estates and farms.

The Spectator

fact is that, despite the numerous devices to make "less work for Mother", the women continue to observe their interminable hours and to benefit least of all from the increased leisure which is the keynote of modern procedure. As to what good all the extra free time is to those who get it should not be a concern of this department, and neither is it, but one who worked a 60-hour week for $2.50 cannot help making contrasts with yesterday and to-day.

For instance, how could an old-timer possibly keep from rolling in the aisles when he heard three nice Narberth young ladies who are office workers arranging to tell their bosses that they could not possibly come to work on Tuesday because they had to go to a dance on Monday night and would not get home until nearly dawn? What's wrong with that? Apparently nothing, or at least the aforesaid bosses had nothing to say about it, and they paid the young ladies, as is customary, for the time they didn't work. That was also different from the old days, as often when the office was closed on July 4th the pay was 42 cents less than the $2.50 which was in the regular envelope. That was also the case at Christmas, which was the only other holiday.

Perhaps one excess begot the other, as is inevitable in human affairs, and it was probably some such idea as that which induced Ben Durbin to send along the following union-busting regulations of a department store in 1854:

Store must be opened promptly at 6 A. M. and remain open until 9 P. M. the year round.

Store must be swept; counters, base shelves and show-cases dusted; lamps trimmed, filled and chimneys cleaned; pens made; door and windows opened; a pail of water and a scuttle of coal must be brought in by each clerk before breakfast, if there is time to do so and attend to customers who call.

Store must not be opened on the Sabbath Day unless absolutely necessary and then only for a very few minutes.

Any employee who is in the habit of smoking Spanish cigars, getting shaved at a barber shop, going to dances, and other such places of amusement, will most surely give his employer reason to be suspicious of his integrity and all-around honesty.

Each employee must pay not less than five dollars per year to the church and must attend Sunday School every Sunday.

Men employees are given one evening a week for courting purposes and two if they go to prayer meetings regularly.

After 14 hours of work in the store, the leisure time must be spent in reading good literature.

Wouldn't seem that charity and justice, nor regard for the rights of others, formed any particular part of those Sunday School lessons, would it?

Sunday School

always reverted to Unionism in the end.

At the time of the Civil War it was used as a center for war workers, but it took another war to close it. The Second World War, with its gas rationing, made it too difficult for people to travel the long distance to reach it.

It was in 1878 that the best-known and best-loved teacher took over. His name was Charles Jones Fryer, a local farmer and butcher, who reorganized the school which had been closed because of denominational difficulties since 1870. By 1890 the school had far outgrown itself and the School Board decided to build another building adjacent to it.

When the new building was completed, the old one was turned over to the community for non-sectarian religious purposes.

Charles Fryer died June 27, 1919, and thousands of people who had known and loved him attended his funeral from the little Sunday School.

Luther C. Parsons, Lower Merion's well-known blacksmith, became superintendent of the Sunday School until the Second World War when it was closed temporarily. Then Lyle Smith of Brookhurst Ave., Narberth, became Superintendent and acting chairman of the Board of Trustees. Charles C. Schmidt is assistant superintendent and Miss Anna Latch is treasurer today.

Trustees Approve
 Other trustees are Nathan B. Montgomery, C. Warner Smith, Philip Muller and Jacob Greiner.

All of them have met to approve the proposal of the Executive Committee of the Penn Valley Association to take the building over for a community center and a war memorial.

The only remaining action necessary for the Sunday School to reassert itself as an active force in the community is for the membership of the Penn Valley group to approve its Executive Board's proposal. After that comes the problem of raising funds to make repairs on the old building and to provide for its upkeep.

The Civil Association will meet again in May to determine the sentiment of its membership and its ability to pay. It will be used as a center for the Boy Scouts, the Penn Valley Garden Club and the Civic Association, if the plans are approved.

Succumbs at 65
 Benjamin F. LeFevre, a resident of 108 Bryn Mawr Ave., Bala-Cynwyd, for the past four years, died Sunday at Physicians and Surgeons Hospital, Philadelphia, after a six weeks' illness. He was 65 years old.

There is no eloquent silence; it serves sometimes to approve, sometimes to condemn; there is a mocking silence; there is a respectful silence.—La Rochefoucauld.

Gearhart Cites Sharp Increase In Arrests Here

32 P. C. Decrease Reported In Auto Injuries Over Last Year

A total of 680 arrests were made by Lower Merion Township police during March, it was reported this week by Superintendent of Police Samuel W. Gearhart.

This represents a sharp increase over the figure for March, 1946, when only 272 arrests were made.

Violations of the Motor Vehicle Code accounted for 583 of the arrests: there were 57 Township ordinance violations, six drunken driving arrests, four burglaries, three larcenies, three cases of worthless check passing and two arrests each on desertion and gambling charges.

Gearhart has asked businessmen to be more careful about locking up at night. During March, policemen found 45 doors and windows open during routine checks at night.

Ardmore shoppers are still being careless about getting back to their cars before the red flag pops up in the parking meter, Gearhart reported. During March, 497 citizens stopped by the Township Building to pay dollar fines.

Accident investigation officers reported a total of 71 accidents last month. One person was killed and 21 were injured. During March, 1946, 31 persons were injured in 70 accidents.

This represents a decrease of 32 percent in the number of persons injured in automobile accidents.

To date this year, 58 persons have been injured, and two persons have been killed, in a total of 187 accidents. Last year, during the same period of time, there were 185 accidents, or two less, in which 57 persons were injured and two persons killed.

Vice Admiral James L. Kauffman, Commandant of the 4th Naval District, will serve as Honorary Grand Marshal.
